The Cannabis Industry has reached a value in excess of $35 billion. The higher potency could also be ascribed to acquisition of more scientific knowledge by the cultivators.
Now you can learn How To Get Higher Levels of THC and Long-Term Potency by learning the dynamics of Modern Horticulture.
Appropriate scientific and technical knowhow would be imperative in healthy and high quality harvests. The cultivation techniques in place are now quite different from what was commonplace 3 to 4 decades ago. The ultra-modern equipment employed in Hydroponics Cultivation Systems says a lot about the quality of today's cannabis. Thousands of cultivators have taken advantage of the legalization of cannabis at the state level, and are now growing marijuana at all levels, from a few plants, to small scale and to large scale.

Customer Reviews

I bought this one for a research project. Just what I was looking for.

Way to basic a book. Every ounce of info in this book could have been found in a google or Wikipedia search...

by following this complicated advice. The most important edibles procedure, decarb, is very wrong.

Disjointed, simplistic, repetative. I really expected something better. It explained little about hydroponic topics. Plugged a lot of commercial products.

Waste of time

Basic useless information. If you were born under a rock you should check out this book, if not read something else.
