New Orleans native, Todd-Michael St. Pierre, has developed recipes for Cooking Light Magazine; his books have have been featured in The Denver Post, The San Francisco Chronicle, The Baton Rouge Advocate, The Lafayette Advertiser & on AOL Food. Todd-Michael is also author of popular cookbooks like Jambalaya, A Streetcar Named Delicious & A Confederacy of Scrumptious! A major Saints fan he currently lives in Boulder, Coloradeaux, but spreads the love for all things south Louisiana, wherever he goes! You can read more about the author, his cookbooks & children's books at LouisianaBoy.com

To know her is to love her. She is New Orleans. Todd Michael St. Pierre taps into the vast wealth of the city and presents the food and a way of life that is uniquely New Orleans. A must read for all who love New Orleans. As a fellow New Orleanian, I was touched and brought to tears. I laughed and reminisced while adding new dishes to my repertoire. And the poems spread throughout the book are a bonus, the voice of a native son that makes this book much more than an ordinary cookbook! Linda Fretwell Jones

I will totally praise Todd-Michael St. Pierre for capturing tastes from my years growing up in the city of the Saints. This cookbook and its little nuances of flavor and etiquette of cuisine are divine. It has made many a church family gathering tastier and more fun for Momma to share the cookbook and recommend it to her 'old lady' friends.

Another of this author's superior cookbooks which not only serve up fantastic recipes but little bits of history on the food also. For any serious cook with a love of this style of cooking a must have addition to his or her library!

LOVE, LOVE, LOVE Todd-Michael St. Pierre books! I have a collection of his recipe books and love them all!

Great and easy recipes! Really are Cajun, creole cooking and food. This is a fun cookbook not the normal drab ones we buy AWESOME cookbook! I can't decide if I like the authentic main dishes, the decadent desserts, or the famous adult beverages the best in this book. I'm from NOLA and this is a great book of delish down home cooking!

My eyes were immediately drawn to the cover and the name. Then I was no less intrigued by the range of flavors and recipes that are so aptly included in this cookbook. My LA bragging rights have soared as I engage my friends (who have left Louisiana) in the tastes of Louisiana through the capable descriptions/recipes of Todd-Michael St. Pierre. Thanks for sharing your brilliance and artistic appreciation with us!

This is the first time that I have purchased Todd Michael's books. Originally I bought two for Christmas gifts, then decided I wanted one also. All total I have purchased nine of his cookbooks, many as Christmas gifts (two different ones for myself). I love the names of the recipes in the Who Dat Cooking book and the recipes all sound so good. I have tried one of the recipes so far and it was delicious. Can't wait to try more recipes from it. They all look good. I have also purchased a Street Car Named Delicious and can't wait to see those recipes. If you are interested in good South Louisiana cooking, Who Dat Cooking is the book to buy!!
