Population Patterns: What Factors Determine The Location And Growth Of Human Settlements? (Investigating Human Migration & Settlement (Library))

Synopsis

Why do people migrate to and settle in the places they do? Fascinating examples from history help explain the determining factors of migration. Readers will be fascinated to read about the settling of the Nile in ancient Egypt; the Industrial Revolution in Britain; the opening up of the American West; the Gold Rush; and the colonization of Australia.

Natalie Hyde was born in Fredericton, New Brunswick, and grew up in Galt (now Cambridge), Ontario, where she still lives. She spent most of her childhood collecting crickets, toads and tent caterpillars. The rest of the time she practiced being a genie. When that didn't work out, she studied languages at the University of Waterloo. Natalie lives with her husband and four children in a house with too many stairs, which they share with a little leopard gecko and a cat that desperately wants to eat him. I Owe You One is Natalie's first book for Orca. The new 'Investigating Human Migration & Settlement' series provides Grade 6 with 48 pages each of detail on global migration patterns. Paul Challen's MIGRATION IN THE 21ST CENTURY, Natalie Hyde's POPULATION PATTERNS, Ceri Oeppen's HOPES, NEEDS, RIGHTS & LAWS, Marina Cohen's CHANGING CULTURAL LANDSCAPES, Robert Walker's PUSHES AND PULLS, and Sally Morgan's CHANGING PLANET each examine motivation, experience, and impact of human migration patterns around the world.
